CANCER FOUNDATION

Teddy Bear Cancer Foundation Teen, Axel, is 14 years old and battled cancer when he was 12. He asked us to help him share this letter he wrote for other children in the hospital, as a message of hope and encouragement.

Dear All Children In The Hospital,

I know how it feels to be in the hospital because I had cancer in my head. I was 12 years old when I was diagnosed with cancer. I always remember when I found out. I was so scared, I said why is this happening to me? I almost gave up. But we have to never quit on anything, we always have to make it through to the end.

I know it's hard to be in the hospital. When I was there, I thought of something positive, and learned to be strong in situations when something bad happens.

I know that it is hard when you are diagnosed. It's ok to feel that, but don't give up. Everything will get better.

Trust me, I know it takes a long time, but I struggled and struggled with all my heart and I tried everything and did not give up. Now, I am free from cancer.

Try in everything you do. Try your best to support yourself and everyone in this world.

I made this letter because I want to make the world a better place. And I want to make you all feel better. I want everyone to be happy and I want everyone to smile. Say to yourself that you'll never give up. Say it out loud and so loud that everyone can hear. Remember, you can do this.

Please, promise me you won't give up on yourselves. Because I didn't give up, I feel better and you can feel better also. I want all of you to know you can do this!

Never, Never, Never Give Up.
